The time has changed
And the night comes sooner now
That makes it a little hard to adjust
And I become a little bit uneasy
Sometimes when I talk to you
Words don't come easy
And I have many questions to ask you
But I become uneasy and don't
Many things are not natural for me
And I do not do things that have no meaning
That is why I have not even touched you

Aware.

Of a panorama, an impression, a review of issues, problems, answers, and ideas.

Of one person knowing the unrealized emptiness, the void of being un-
aware.

Of his desire, her desire, their desire that others should know and see and reflect and perhaps judge.

Of students learning not only philosophical theories and the appreciation of art but also the realities of dope, prejudice, bigotry, other worlds and foreign languages, the battered earth, and the conflicting self.

Of campus life, raw or refined, broad

PUBLISHED ANNUALLY BY THE STUDENTS OF WEST
VIRGINIA WESLEYAN COLLEGE.

EDITED BY NORRINE SHARP AND CHERYL KISER.

Aware:
Of a minority on campus, in the town,
in the world.
Of Blacks trying to find their places in a society that is struggling to accept them. People wanting merely to be what they are not what a color des-tines them to be.

Of demands by Black students for a black counselor, black faculty, additional black students.
Of prejudices within ourselves that may make us uncomfortable, yet an unwillingness to change. Empty handshakes, meaningless smiles, uneasy friendships.

Of the minority seeking love, understanding, and justice from a majority not yet ready to comply.

Aware.

Of Indonesian, Indian, Rhodesian, foreign influences in classrooms, on campus, in our lives.

Of Americans expecting foreign students to adjust to them and not doing their share of understanding.

Of American slang American aggressiveness, American customs, natural to most but incomprehensible and unusual to some.

Of language barriers, pressure for passing grades, textbooks requiring deciphering conversations needing translations, strange food.

Of people leaving the unknown and traversing the unknown in quest of learning experiences.

Of students adjusting to a new home new friends, and a new way of life.

Aware.

Of man's gains in the technological world and yet his failures in his ecological habitat.

Of a man, a department, a student body narrowing the problem down to their level, their school.

Of fungus diseases, maple trees, Rho-dodendron, and dogwood.

Of grading, seeding, landscaping.

Of lily gardens, campus eyesores, Earth Day, and the ecological movement as a whole.

Of man, afraid for the future and striving to right the wrongs of the present.

Aware.

Of a new spirit growing, gaining momentum, burying itself in the thoughts and actions of many lives.

Of a man, only a prophet to some but a savior to others. A central focus for discussion and thought. A man inspiring excitement, commitment, and witnessing in many forms.

Of a skepticism among those who question the implications of fanaticism.

Of a fear of sudden organization and seemingly uncontrollable emotionalism.

Of the impact nevertheless, of such a movement and the resulting spirit of unity and fellowship, the sense of "oneness" in the love of God.

Aware.

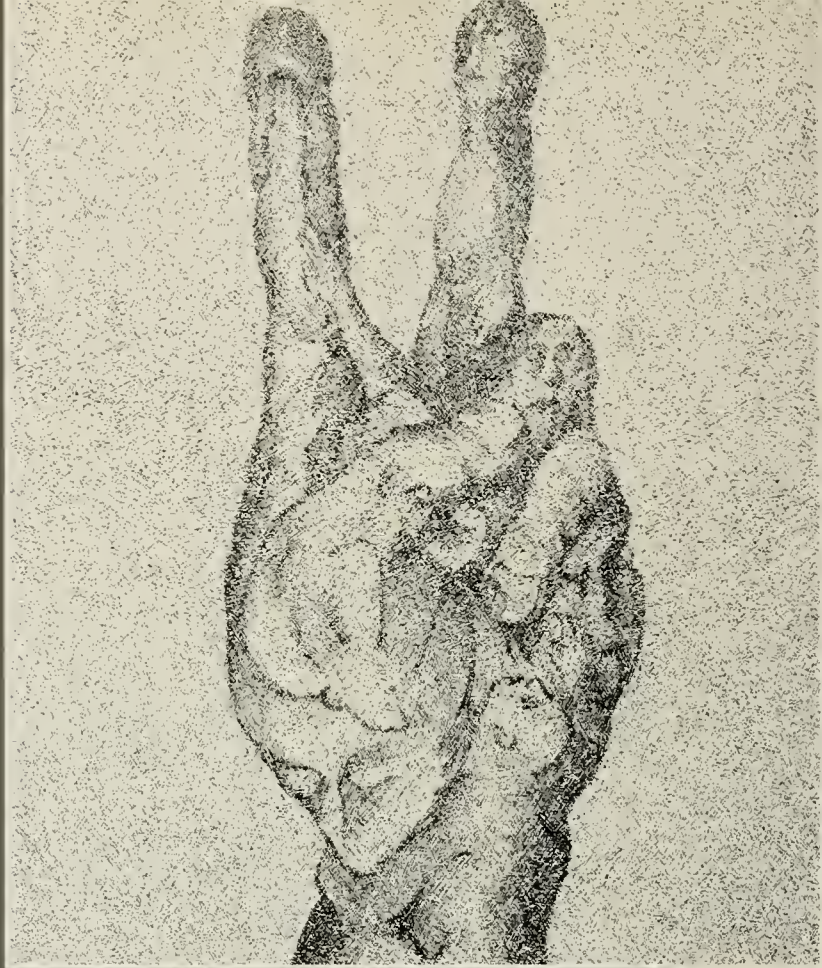

Of bleary eyes, strange smells, use and abuse, meaningless laughter, the adventure of risks, the need for kicks, the abolishment of boredom, the unreasonable demand for a reason and an answer.

Of concern for the young. Of anxiety among adults and peers for the problems and frustrations and seemingly impending destruction of their friends.

Of a council, meeting and working to minimize drug use and reduce the stigma of criminality associated with drugs. Of hot lines and long hours waiting for the call which will open the doors and satisfy both ends.

Of continually dull, expressionless faces the morning after. The feeling of waste which habitually follows the feeling of joy. And yet the frustration of knowing that what is done, despite the noise, will still be done.

Aware.
Of a movement from becoming to Being. Of a change in myself and my view of the world. Now I am no longer the nucleus, but a particle moving at a speed unimaginable and reflecting off the many particles, peoples, places of the time. First I was only the sole proprietor of my body and keeper of the amalgamation of anxieties, fears, aspirations, and contradictions that conflicted in my soul. Now I see these threads running through the garments of other souls.

Now I am aware.
Of other smiles, other problems, other studies, other ideas, other triumphs. Of my striving to find myself in our world.

THE ESTABLISHMENT

Aware.

- Of the challenge of pedagogy — teaching, guiding, directing; yet counseling, advising and caring.
- Of the stigma of the Establishment — knowing how some suspect, distrust, dislike; yet some revere, emulate, appreciate.
- Of the responsibility of leadership — leading a virtuous yet vibrant and meaningful private life; knowing it reflects on your public self.
- Of the import of the task and working patiently, hopefully for the end results.

Faculty and Administration Guide Wesleyan Into the 70's

President Stanley H. Martin has been guiding Wesleyan's development for the past fifteen years.

A never-ending search for better and more relevant methods of learning continues at Wesleyan. The Long Range Planning Committee of faculty and staff studies Wesleyan's aims and objectives as related to the ever-changing role of higher education. Curriculum changes, size of the college, and types of degrees to be offered are but a few of the areas being studied with the purpose of better defining Wesleyan's future direction as the college becomes more aware of its responsibilities to incoming generations of students.

ART

The Art Department expanded its offerings this year as a result of moving into Benson Hall. The building was completely renovated inside to provide studio space for painting, drawing, and design classes. A studio was added onto the back for sculpture, ceramics and printmaking.

Kathy Snavelly refines the details of her work.

Music

The Music Department provides all students with an opportunity to develop a general understanding and appreciation of music and helps those majoring in music to become accomplished musicians. The various choral and instrumental groups give students both inside and outside the department a chance to participate and contribute generously to the cultural enrichment of the campus community.

Economics

This year the Economics Department devoted much effort to revamping its course offerings, increasing the economic students' exposure to well-known economists and businessmen, strengthening the Economics Club, and multiplying faculty-student contacts. The department devised and updated many of its offerings and a new course, Regional and Environmental Economics, will be offered next year.

History

The purpose of the History Department is to integrate critically the human condition through analysis of its past with the aim of developing a broad perspective so that the student can function as an intelligent and informed human being. In recent years the move away from traditional survey courses and toward thematic courses has made possible courses such as The European Revolutionary Tradition and Europe in the Industrial Age. Also in attempting to meet the challenge of the contemporary world, the department has expanded its non-western offerings.

The Department of Bible and Religion provides all students with the opportunity to gain understanding of the Judeo-Christian religion and provides majors with a much wider understanding of the religion and its implications. Most majors go on to do graduate study in Theology; many become ministers. This year the department sponsored the second in a series of Lufburrow lectures in Religion, a program under which a faculty member is invited to engage in special research.

Christian Education

The major task of the Department of Christian Education is to help prepare students for careers in many kinds of church and service-oriented programs. In the recent past, the general framework of the curriculum was altered little, but content and method have changed considerably, keeping pace with the best of modern educational developments. Planned improvements for the future are a seminar to provide a final semester of integrative study and an emphasis on field experience.

THE HAPPENING

Aware.

Of ageless activities that continue year after year despite changes in leadership or followship.

Of activities that attract special attention throughout the year that mean different things to different people — enthusiasm, excitement, or indifference.

Of events that lend a stable feeling to the year, knowing that whatever else happens or does not happen, these will remain intact.

Of experiences that may last for only one weekend, but memories linger on for many years. In a way, they last forever.

President and Mrs. Martin Greet the Class of 1975 at Summer Orientations

A seemingly endless and confusing jumble of information, nervous greetings, metal furniture, midnight jam sessions, jingling cash registers, and a ticklish, giddy feeling in the pit of the stomach are all a part of Freshman Orientation. Wesleyan tried to make the experience a little easier and a little more profitable this year in several ways. Orientation was held in two sessions July 15-17 and August 5-7 so that only about half the freshman were here at once, making the group a much more manageable size. Also, the parents were invited to stay the entire two and one-half days so that they could feel that they, as well as the students, had become familiar with the school. Freshman and their parents attended convocations to learn about various aspects of the school from members of the administration and faculty and several student leaders. While students met with their faculty advisors and registered, parents met in small discussion groups with administrative officials. There was also free time to explore the campus and buy books. Another session was held just before school started for those who could not make the summer sessions.

"Columbus and All Them Guys"

Pervade Wesleyan's 1971 Homecoming Activities

October 15-17 Wesleyan students and alumni took a weekend off from the routine of classes and activities to dip into the past and to share in an old tradition, Homecoming. Though the atmosphere was easy, congenial, and festive, it took many weeks of work to prepare for it. The theme 'Columbus and All Them Guys' left plenty of room for originality, and the students spared no effort decorating dorms and floats. Fleming Hall took first place in dorm decorations with a portrayal of the Salem Witchcraft Trials. The winning floats were Alpha Delta Pi with 'Wright Idea for the Future' and Theta Xi with 'Leif Erickson — He Did it First.' Theta Xi and Alpha Gamma Delta took first place for banners; Alpha Delta Pi and Kappa Alpha placed second. The weekend was packed with activities beginning with the coronation of Miss Betty Jean Culver as Homecoming Queen in a ceremony in the Chapel Friday evening. The bonfire and Charley Byrd concert followed the coronation. Saturday brought the parade, the picnic, a hard-fought football game against Salem (3-0), the Alumni Banquet and the annual dance. The coffee house was also open all evening. The activities of the weekend were made possible through the planning and work of the Special Activities Committee. Ted Brown, chairman. Aside from the Morning Worship Service and the Tour Choir Concert Sunday was spent contemplating the remnants of a weekend of fun and fantasy.

Students take part in the annual tree lighting ceremonies

The Christmas Season officially opened at Wesleyan with the Hanging of the Greens and the Tree Lighting Ceremony December 5. The Hanging of the Greens service took place in the chapel which was beautifully decorated with greenery tied in red ribbons. Members of the college community gathered to hear the Christmas story read from the Scriptures, to sing together, and see the actual hanging of the holly, ivy, mistletoe and rosemary on a wreath at the chancel. Then everyone moved out of the chapel by taper light to a giant fir tree in front of the library. After greetings from Dr. Martin by Lyn Dotson, Community Council President, and caroling, the tree was lighted.

Paula Hess directed the Alpha Xis to victory with "Once Upon A Time," "Traces Memories," and "Walk On By," while Jenkins Hall's Fifth Dimension medley rated them second with the judges. Carol Young served as their director. The third place plaque was awarded to Independent Women for their "Moods of the Fifties" with their director, Dianne Strong, honored as best female director. Phi Sigma Epsilon cleaned up with first place for Simon and Garfunkel's "Sounds of Silence" and "Bridge Over Troubled Water" and best male director being awarded to Mike Coulter. The judges selected Men's Independent Singers, directed by H. G. Young, as second place winners for their "Salute to the Beatles," while Theta Xi's "For What It's Worth" slid them into third place for director, Mike Weeks.

Spring Weekend Radiates Student Talent and Enthusiasm

Traditional spring weather ushered in Wesleyan's traditional Spring Weekend. It began Friday evening as talented Livingston Taylor generated an intense audience response leading to an encore after "Carolina Days." The most successful carnival attraction Saturday was the dunking machine, which boasted such popular personalities as Dean Emery and Professor Piper. Groups sponsored other booths at the Universe Carnival, ranging from the sale of water pipes to a water balloon toss. The tired, happy winners of the bicycle race around the Chapel horseshoe were: Women's Independent Division of Smith, Smith, Fogg, and Jamison, Men's Independent Division of Amerman, Johnston, Schieck, and Horst, Alpha Delta Pi, and Phi Sigma Epsilon. Three fantastic one-acts, directed by Tom Powell, John Donohue, and Ted Brown added a bright touch to the sometimes gloomy weekend weather. Dismal rain did not dampen the reign of Queen Pam Perrazone, though, as fifteen groups performed solid gold songs at the Spring Sing competition Saturday night. Bill Wilson's "Harry and the Angel" provided ideas for thought at the Chapel service Sunday morning that concluded Wesleyan's Solid Gold Spring Weekend.

Graduates Share an Awareness of Self and Others . . .

. . . Because of Their Four Years at Wesleyan

THE PERFORMER

Aware.

Of people who come to Wesleyan to share ideas and thoughts with students and faculty, hoping to initiate a flicker of response.

Of expression so deep and personal it cannot be spoken. It must become a work of art.

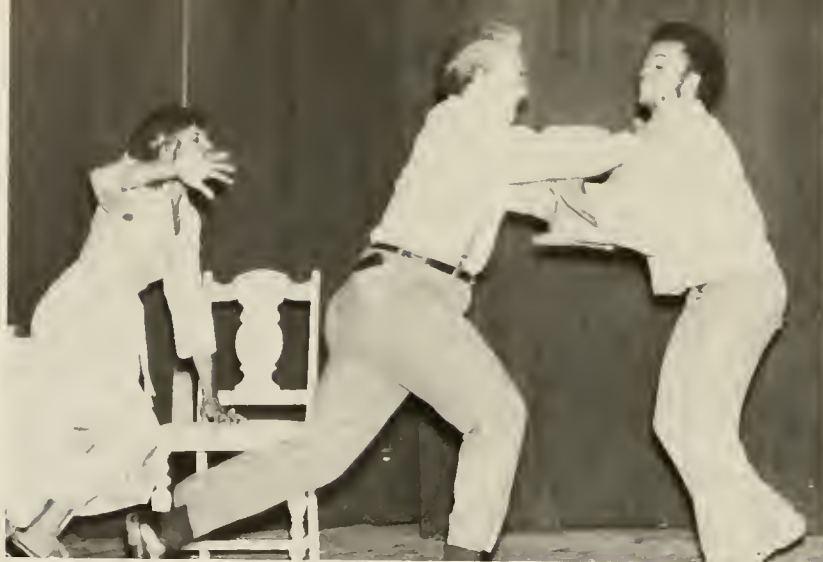

Of a message that must be shared with others — so powerful it impels them to become involved also. It takes the form of a drama.

Of events that take a great amount of preparation that hopefully result in a significant addition to the lives of the college community.

Of the knowledge a college offers if the student is willing to receive it. To overcome the hurdle of grades and eight o'clock classes. To leave with a sense of achievement and preparation for what is ahead.

Oral Interpretation Class Presents a Successful Recital

Alpha Psi Omega, the dramatics honorary, presented two evenings of one act plays September 24 and 25. "Home Free" by Lanford Wilson, directed by Brenda Duke, concerned a brother and sister living as best they could under difficult circumstances. Mr. Charles Pressar and Bill Turner directed a scene from "Purlie Victorious" by Ossie Davis, a play dealing with South Georgian sharecroppers. They also directed a scene from "Family Portrait" by Ben Caldwell, a play about a midwestern middle class family. Cebe Marple directed a sequence of scenes from "Feiffer's People" by Jules Feiffer. The play was taken from Feiffer's comic strip by the same name, which utilizes simple line drawings of people and biting satire.

The Oral Interpretation class presented a Readers Theater November 19. A Readers Theater uses very few props and only suggestions of costumes, with the emphasis on the readings. The class presented "Prose Poems" by Oscar Wilde and "The Little Prince" by Antoine de Saint-Exupéry.

THE NOW THOREAU

"The man imprisoned in our play belongs more to the 1970's than to the age in which he lived.

For more than a century, Henry David Thoreau was dismissed as a gifted weirdo. Only a rebel like Emerson's handyman would dare to question the benefits of technology! Why, it is obvious to any educated mind that technological advancement and progress are synonymous. To create a better world all we have to do is make things bigger, faster, stronger, or cheaper.

But materialism is not the way. THOREAU KNEW THAT. He smelled the smog before we saw it. It smarted his soul before it smarted our eyes.

He spoke out; but in those television-less days, men were slow to listen. He sang out in nonviolent defiance, but how few men since could carry the tune: Gandhi, Count Tolstoi, Martin Luther King.

According to Santayana, "Those who do not remember the past are condemned to relive it." Perhaps this play will jog our memories as we relive the poetic protest of one of America's freest men.

Time is awash in this jail cell. We are not trapped in happenings past, but are concerned about THE NOW THOREAU — the explosive spirit who addressed himself to the perils of our time with more power and clarity than most angry young men wirling now about now.

Thoreau is a fascinating paradox: A man who was — and is. A self-effacing giant. A wit who rarely laughed.

A man who loved so deeply and completely that he seemed, sometimes, not to have loved at all."

Eugene Labiche (1815-1888) marketed over 150 workaday farces for appreciative French audiences between 1838 and 1875. Le Chapeau de Paille d'Italie, an immediate success at its 1851 Paris premiere, is one of two of his plays that is still frequently revived. Through his embellishment of broad humor and time-worn jokes, Labiche raised French farce to a height it has seldom attained since. Some of his contemporaries rather extravagantly compared him with Moliere.

Chief among American productions of An Italian Straw Hat was a 1936 adaptation by Orson Wells and Edwin Denby produced in New York by the Federal Theatre Project under the title Horse Eats Hat.

The wise men (Ken Raybuck and Dave Denault) agree on a solution.

Mr. Presar seems pleased with the Children's Theatre production.

Twelve Wesleyan students presented an entertaining collection of improvisations to hundreds of delighted children in areas near Buckhannon over Spring Break. This was the sixth year for Wesleyan's Children's Theatre Tour, but it was the first year that anything besides a straight script was used. The students started working right after Christmas picking out stories, songs, skits, and poems for children. Then they worked out a presentation for each, leaving plenty of room for each member to improvise and use his imagination. The results were three stories: The King, the Mice, and the Cheese, The Rabbit and the Tiger, and Stone Soup; one skit: "Cops and Robbers"; one poem: "Casey at the Bat"; and five songs: "The Ants Go Marching," "Here We Are," "The Orchestra," "Puff the Magic Dragon," and "Country Roads." The Children's Theatre was presented at Wesleyan and the surrounding areas of Beverly, Circleville, Franklin, Seneca Rocks, Mathias, Brandywine, Elkins, Clarksburg, Nutter Fort, Webster Springs and Cowen. The cast members did their own technical work on tour and they spent most nights in Buckhannon so they were always up early to travel.

Universe Explores Student Talent

This year the coffee house, which was open most weekends, provided an atmosphere of fellowship and free expression for all those who wished to come and share it. The Universe was open most Friday and Saturday nights with student entertainment and some Sunday nights to show movies. The coffee house also sponsored a carnival Spring Weekend.

This was the third year for the coffee house which began as a project for Christianity and the Social Order taught by Dr. Lantz. It was so successful that it became part of Religious Life Council and a new group of students continued the coffee house last year. They moved into a small frame building on Camden Avenue, which is owned and maintained by the school. This year the committee painted the little house bright yellow and made numerous interior improvements.

Bowie Grant and Denny Crouse love to entertain.

Helen Varteressian and Joe Hatcher serve refreshments at the Universe.

Bill Phillips sings with a smile.

Second semester, a fellowship and Bible study meeting was held every Friday evening at 6:30 at the coffee house, although this was not in any way sponsored by the Universe committee. Also Millard Fuller of Koinonia Partners, Inc., a Christian community in Americus, Georgia, spoke at the coffee house twice while he was on campus.

The group that gathered at the coffee house was usually small, which provided for a relaxed and intimate atmosphere, but an all time high for attendance was set when Funky, Kelly, and Dude played for 198 people and three logs.

Ruth Hunsberger served as chairman most of the year. The coffee house was financed by contributions and the sale of food. RLC set a small amount of money aside for emergencies.

With The Opening of School Came Resignations and

Led by the school marshalls, the academic procession arrives for the President's Convocation.

Wesleyan's past and future came together in several ways September 7, at the President's Convocation. Dr. Martin officially announced his resignation at the Convocation and plans to leave his post September, 1972 after fifteen years of service to Wesleyan. Mrs. Madge Martin, also retiring after a twenty-seven year nursing career at Wesleyan, was officially recognized. But the accent was on the future as Dr. Martin delivered his address concerning the plans of the Long Range Planning Committee, headed by Mr. Robert Galvin. Dr. Martin discussed plans for a five-year Master's degree in specific areas, expansion of the three-two program, the consortium committee, recruitment, off-campus learning opportunities and financial support resources. Dr. Martin also spoke of immediate plans for the new gymnasium, and a hard push for National League of Nursing and American Chemical Society accreditation and vocational accreditation for home economics.

Mrs. Madge Martin receives recognition from Dr. Cunningham upon her retirement.

Honorary Degrees Which Highlighted Fall Convocations

Harley O. Stagers, Mrs. Benedum, and Jerry West receive honorary degrees.

Jerry West is guest of honor at the Kick-Off luncheon for the physical education building.

Wesleyan paid tribute to its founders, presented honorary degrees to three people, and officially launched its drive for funds for the new gymnasium at the Founders Day Convocation October 8. Harley O. Stagers, a West Virginia Congressman for over twenty years, received the Doctor of Laws Degree and gave the address at the convocation. Jerry West, the Los Angeles Laker from West Virginia who is considered the best player to ever play basketball, received the Doctor of Humane Letters Degree. Willeen Ludwig Benedum, a philanthropist who has dedicated her life to the service of mankind, received the Doctor of Public Service Degree. Attention was focused on the plans for a new gymnasium at the Founders Day luncheon when Community Council President Lyn Dotson presented a one hundred dollar check to kick-off the fund raising campaign.

Liberal Education Series Presents Programs From Diverse Areas

If LES attendance is any indication, Wesleyan students are becoming less aware of what's going on in the world and less interested. The program was introduced several years ago to replace required chapel, but attendance and interest in it have declined steadily. The school put fifteen thousand dollars into the program this year, but the speakers usually addressed an audience of about twenty students. The series, sometimes sponsoring programs in conjunction with the Community Concert Series and the Encounter Film Series, presented a variety of different programs with the intent of broadening the liberal education of the members of the campus community. Programs were geared to various facets of interest. A few of the topics were "The Pentagon Vs. the Press," "Students Find Politics Wanting," "Our Polluted Waterways," "Women's Liberation — A Quiet View," and "Should the United States Be in Southeast Asia"?

In February, Gary Shope organized a small committee of concerned students and faculty to improve the series. They passed out questionnaires in the dorms and to the faculty, but they only got a 28% return on them. However, the committee came up with several good ideas and went to work putting them into effect. The committee feels the series should be under the office of Academic Affairs and that the speakers should be chosen by a committee of students, faculty, and administration. They hope to publicize the programs more widely and stimulate more faculty interest, perhaps relating some of the programs to topics being discussed in classes. The committee is working hard to make their ideas a reality.

Your Liberal Education Series

West Virginia Wesleyan College with a wide variety of religious and religious events usually educated many of an educated person's needs, vocational and professional appreciation, spiritual standing of science, and private foundation.

This program is on the recommendation of the council and subcommittee special committee of students. This is and information.

You will note in the brochure programs scheduled at a variety of more acceptable opportunities. Your presence and participation is essential to the growth of the individual institution.

Each member of the college community is responsible for participating in the Liberal Education Series. Personal evaluations and comments are solicited for the purpose of providing a continual evaluation of the individual events. This will enable the committee to include the best possible programs in future series.

Four Years of Hard Work Culminate in Senior Recitals

Becky Isaacs works on last minute preparations with accompanist Ginger Rogers.

Many hours of practice result in a successful recital for Carolyn Jones.

Every senior music major must give a recital in his applied field sometime during the year. The recital, which is considered part of his comprehensive exam, demonstrates to the music professors what the student has learned, gives the student practice in performing, and provides cultural enrichment and enjoyment to those who attend. Mike and Becky Isaacs, Jeff Sumner, Greg Perkins, Carol Sayers, Carol Thorp, Carolyn Jones, and Paul Humphrey gave recitals this year.

The student decides the date of his recital and begins preparing for it early in the year. With the help of his music professors, the student selects music from the Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Contemporary periods. Vocalists must sing selections in German, French, Italian and English. All the music professors attend the recitals and evaluate each performer.

Wesleyan's Awareness Strives to Make Academics Relevant

Work progresses as Wesleyan expands its library.

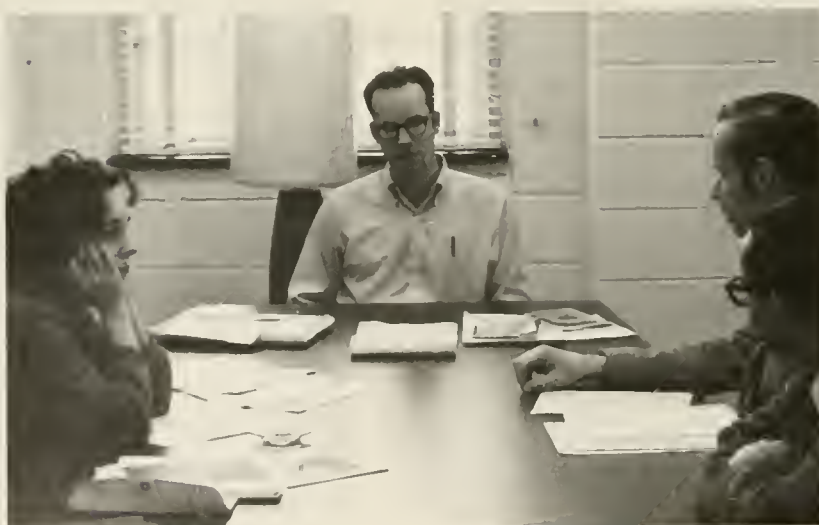

Julie Montgomery puts finishing touches on a painting in newly remodeled Benson Hall.

Many changes have taken place in the academics of Wesleyan since Dr. Plummer began his duties as Vice-President for Academic Affairs and Dean of the College last June. One of the most obvious changes was in the Nursing Department which achieved two major goals this year. Middleton Hall, a modern nursing building, was completed, and the National League of Nursing accredited the nursing program.

Benson Hall was completely remodeled to provide a new home for the Art Department. The renovation of Hammond Hall will be completed by July, providing new homes for the departments of History, Sociology and Anthropology, Home Economics, Foreign Languages and for the Audio-Visual and Study Skills programs.

Two new majors have been added to the traditional departmental major. A student may choose a structured interdisciplinary major such as American or International Studies, or a non-structured or "contract" type major, which is worked out with the help of three faculty advisers to suit the individual. The major must be approved by the Curriculum Committee. A minor in

The Humanities Committee plans for academic growth and development.

Ms Keller (center) proudly displays the nurses' letter of accreditation to student nurses.

Work is rapidly progressing in the remodeling of Haymond Hall.

Computer Science is also being offered.

The revised General Studies Program, approved last year, got under way this year with the course Social Science Perspectives. The course, which is team taught, is designed to teach students how the methodologies of the social sciences are applied to a particular problem. During the second semester and the summer, a group of teachers on released time planned the five hour interdisciplinary Humanities course to be offered in 1972-73 to a limited number of students on an experimental basis. Also a number of departments completed extensive revision of their offerings this year to bring them into line with current trends in their fields.

Several academic requirements have been changed. Although seniors still have to take comprehensive examinations, they no longer have to pass them to graduate. Juniors and seniors may register for one elective a semester to be graded pass or fail. Also a student may repeat a course in which he received a D or F and if a higher grade is earned, it will be used instead of the lower grade to compute the grade point average but the lower grade will remain on the permanent record.

Led by President Martin, the Long-Range Planning Committee discusses future plans and goals.

Honoraries Recognize Campus Leadership

The National Leadership Honor Society for College Men, Omicron Delta Kappa, recognizes and encourages achievement in scholarship, athletics, student government, social and religious affairs, publications, and speech, music, drama, and the other arts.

Candidates for membership must have both a major and a minor activity in at least two of the above-mentioned five phases of campus life. They must be juniors or seniors who have completed one year at the school where elected, ranking in the upper 35% of male students in their respective classes.

Students become eligible for membership in Sigma Eta Sigma upon completion of eighty credit hours with a minimum grade point average of 3.35. The society was founded at Wesleyan in order to fulfill the desire to have an academic honor society. The primary purposes of the society are to recognize outstanding academic achievement, to foster a community of scholars, and to provide honor students an opportunity for informal discussion.

Women's Honoraries Promote Scholarship

Soquinta, the Sophomore Women's Honorary, consists of the upper five percent of the sophomore women, or those having a 3.5 cumulative average. With the purpose of exemplifying and fostering a scholarly attitude on campus, Soquinta holds dinner meetings and group activities throughout the year. This year's activities were focused toward buying books for the library.

As individuals, the members of Haught Literary Society serve the campus community in many leadership capacities and strive for high scholastic achievement. Together, the twenty women selected from the senior class on the basis of their scholarship, leadership, and service, further their literary and academic interests through speakers and programs from various fields of interest.

Mrs. Janet McCoy serves as sponsor.

Alpha Phi Gamma Recognizes Achievement in Journalism and Broadcasting

The Delta Sigma chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma is an affiliate of the national journalism fraternity. It recognizes achievement and excellence in those students who participate in collegiate student publications and broadcasting and strives to improve the quality of those organizations. Requirements for membership are serving in one of these areas for at least one year, having an above average scholastic average, and being above freshman rank. The initiation of new members is held each spring at a banquet.

Alpha Psi Omega Rewards Dramatic Ability

The Alpha Rho Cast of Alpha Psi Omega is principally an organization for the recognition of excellence in college dramatics. In order to be selected for membership, one must be a sophomore with a 2.0 average who has accumulated at least fifty points based on roles in dramatic productions and participation in stage technical work.

The cast's activities for the year included the one-act plays, a "spook house" for the Central Elementary School carnival, construction of a lobby for the Atkinson theatre facility, and the annual banquet for WWC Theatre participants.

Alpha Psi Omega was the only honorary to enter a float in the Homecoming Parade.

The Benzene Ring, the oldest honorary on Wesleyan's campus, was established in 1921. Members celebrated the fiftieth year anniversary of the organization this year. Activities included the annual Strawberry Breakfast, a display of the history of the Benzene Ring in Christopher Hall lobby, and speakers at meetings.

The purpose of the organization is "to stimulate a greater interest in the physical sciences, to acquire a greater knowledge of them, and to encourage academic excellence in the science department." Benzene Ring is an affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society. The advisor is Dr. Capstack.

Beta Beta Beta is the national biological honor society. Tri-Beta emphasizes a three-fold program: stimulation of scholarship, dissemination of scientific knowledge, and promotion of biological research. Activities of the Beta Mu Chapter were manufacture and installation of tree identification markers and keep-off-the-grass signs, a departmental party at Mrs. Weimer's house, and service as guides and judges at the State Science Fair.

Active members must be biology majors that have completed twelve hours in the department with a 3.0 average, while maintaining good overall academic standing. Associate memberships are extended to those persons who have indicated an interest in the life sciences, but are ineligible for active membership.

Social Science Honorary Installed at Wesleyan

The purpose of Pi Gamma Mu is to improve scholarship in the social studies, to inspire social service to humanity, to engender sympathy toward others of differing opinions, and to supplement and support existing social science organizations.

Wesleyan's chapter of the National Social Science Honorary Society was organized just last year. Membership is open to juniors and seniors and faculty members who have had 20 semester hours of social science with an average of 3.0.

The Rho Mu Chapter of Phi Alpha Theta was installed last spring at WVWC. Its objectives are recognition of scholastic excellence in the field of history and to further study and appreciation for the various fields of history and historiography.

Members must be history majors or minors who have completed twelve hours of history with a 3.1 average. They must maintain a cumulative average of 3.0 in other courses.

Wesleyan's chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, the National English Honorary, seeks to stimulate a desire to express life in terms of truth and beauty and to gain first hand acquaintance with the chief literary masterpieces in our language. Sigma Tau Delta has monthly dinner meetings with guest speakers. This honorary was the driving force behind the movement to organize the honoraries on campus, resulting in representation of the honoraries on the Academic Affairs Committee of Community Council.

Honorary Business Society Stresses Academic Achievement

The objectives of the Honorary Business Society are the stimulation of interest, the promotion and recognition of higher academic achievement in the field of business administration, and the motivation of higher Christian ideals and principles.

Members are of junior or senior status and have completed twelve semester hours in courses required of a business administration major or minor. Other requirements are a 3.0 average in business courses and rank in the upper half of one's respective class.

Kappa Pi Assists the Art Department

The major objective of Kappa Pi is to reward achievement in the field of art, but Gamma Omega chapter members also form a more unified art department through mutual work opportunities.

Members must have had twelve hours in art studies with a 3.0 average.

This year's activities included the Kappa Pi Art Show and slides and speakers at meetings.

Kappa Delta Pi Honors Future Educators

The Mu Zeta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education, is composed of outstanding juniors and seniors in teacher education. The motto is "Knowledge, Duty, Power." Kappa Delta Pi is basically an encounter among present and future educators in an attempt to gain greater professional understanding. Members must have completed nine hours of education courses.

Physical Education Women Foster Academic Excellence

Organized on this campus to meet the growing needs of women in physical education, Delta Psi Kappa aims to promote the ideals of this profession. Women are selected twice yearly on the basis of academic excellence and interest in physical education.

Each year since they founded May Weekend, the Delta Psi Kappa members have served as the May Queen's Honor Court. They also lend support to departmental projects and aim to further the goals of women in physical education.

Alpha Beta Alpha Recruits Librarians

Alpha Beta Alpha is the National Undergraduate Library Science Fraternity. The Alpha Omicron Chapter was installed on Wesleyan's campus in 1969. The objectives of the honorary are to further knowledge of members in the field of library and information sciences, to promote fellowship, and to help in recruitment of new librarians.

Membership requirements include completion of 3 hours of library science with a 2.0 overall average.

Seated: P. Cyphers. Second Row: S. Papp, J. McConnaughey, Miss Furman, D. Boyd.

Women Further Music Appreciation

Hemidemisemiquavers is a music honorary for women, formed in May, 1971. Some of its purposes are to aid the music department in its activities, to promote scholarship in the department, to further music appreciation in the community, and to give members opportunities to perform.

Hemidemisemiquavers engaged in several projects, among which were serving at receptions following recitals, improving Loar Hall practice rooms, and working in a program of music for the area elementary school children.

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges

In order to qualify for nomination to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities And Colleges, the student must be a college junior, senior, or graduate student enrolled in a four-year undergraduate institution or graduate school. The Awards Committee of Community Council is instructed by the national organization to consider those students who rank definitely above average in scholarship, service, leadership and future potential. Each spring, the sophomore and junior classes and faculty nominate candidates. The Awards Committee then selects from the nominees those students they consider best qualified for the honor.

THE GROUP

- Aware.
- Of the stirring desire to become involved, to branch out from the nuclei of the self to the world of others.
 - Of the firm belief that what one is doing builds up a small part of the world that is falling down . . . around, or simply sharpens the warm glow of fellowship and fun.
 - Of an incentive to act or to motivate others to action . . . learning, experiencing, sharing, building, and sometimes preparing for the future or for others that follow.
 - Of the individual or unified contributions to Wesleyan or to the people that are Wesleyan or to the betterment of the individual self that make these four years of growing a more relevant and meaningful experience.

CCPB Adds Encounter Film Series to its Activities

The Campus Center Program Board plans and arranges cultural, recreational, and social activities for the college community. CCPB planned the Encounter film series, aimed at confronting students with various issues and stimulating a response to them. CCPB also planned the SCOW dances, game tournaments, the Black Theater of Prague, Livingston Taylor, Brian Carney, and Charley Byrd concerts, Frisbee Tournaments, and Easter Egg Hunt.

CCPB introduces its programs to the freshmen at the activities seminar.

Philosophy Club Stimulates Thought on Relevant Issues

The Philosophy Club meets twice a month for lively discussion and debate on student-selected topics. The club is open to any interested students. Members also attend the meetings of the West Virginia Philosophical Society. This society was established twenty-five years ago, with Dr. Franquiz as its first president, to give philosophy professors and students from various colleges a chance to get together. Wesleyan consistently has one of the largest delegations there. The first semester topic, Social Ethics, was discussed at Davis and Elkins, and second semester, Oriental Thought was discussed at Marshall University.

Associated Women's Students, which is actually composed of all women students, is a channel through which girls can make their ideas known and get them translated into action. AWS expanded or changed several regulations concerning hours, visitation, and disciplinary actions this year. AWS sponsors several activities, including Little Sisters Weekend, a Recognition Banquet, and Holiday Baskets. The AWS cabinet consists of the elected officers, presidents, and vice-presidents of all the dorms. Representatives from the residence halls, women's organizations, and the cabinet make up the council. The job of the cabinet is to bring women's concerns to the attention of AWS and the campus.

Honor Board Sets Codes for Wesleyan

The Honor Board which is made up of twelve students and three faculty members, deals with cases of alleged dishonesty in scholastic work. Each case is heard by four student members, the chairman, and a faculty member. If the student is found guilty of violating the Honor Code the board makes appropriate recommendations to school authorities.

Men's House Governing Board, consisting of all presidents, vice-presidents, and secretaries from each dorm and representatives from each wing, deals with problems and activities relating to dorm life. This year the Board expanded visitation hours and provided much of the money for the new basketball court-skating rink behind the Campus Center.

TAC Offers Campus Atmosphere to Town Girls

H. Hurst, C. Baxa

Town and Commuters attempts to provide a link between home and school life for girls who live in town. The girls have a room in the basement of Agnes Howard where they can go to study, talk, and eat lunch together. They held a freshman covered dish supper, a Christmas party, and a party at the end of the year. Carol Baxa is president.

Collegiate Rainbow Continues Success of Founding

Collegiate Rainbow was organized last year for all Rainbow girls on campus. This year the club held a tea to welcome the new freshmen, planned a "Your Thing With God" service, ushered at chapel services, sold greeting cards, and worked with the local Buckhannon Rainbow Assembly.

WVWC-FM provides informational educational programming to the campus and to the state and supplies students with broadcasting experience. The station broadcasts from 10:30 am to 12:30 am seven days a week to an area of a sixty-mile radius from the radio tower in Weston. WVWC-FM features national and state news every hour, coverage of all football games and home basketball games, campus news, programs of national and international interest such as Firing Line with William Buckley, cultural programs, and music for listening. The station is operated by three permanent staff members, sixteen students who are licensed operators, and about ten other students. The station is equipped with a complete control room and a production studio which serves as a backup for the main control room, and a large, well-equipped recording studio.

Chapel Choir and Orchestra Bring Music to Wesleyan

The Chapel Choir, which consists of about one hundred singers selected through audition, provides students with rewarding musical experiences. The choir gave only two major concerts this year, thus providing the students with a chance to do works of considerable difficulty. They performed "Hodii," by R. Vaughan Williams and "Hymn to Jesus" at Christmas and "The Elijah" by F. Mendelssohn in April.

Tour Choir Recruits for Wesleyan

The Tour Choir traveled to various places in West Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania singing in churches and high schools over spring break. Not only was this tour a rewarding experience for the approximately fifty members, but it also served as a good recruiting method for the college because of the vast number of people who heard the choir sing in various areas.

Concert Band Demonstrates Fine Techniques

The Women's Glee Club gives girls a chance to learn more about singing through practicing various kinds of music and to gain skill in performing through the Christmas and Spring concerts, and singing in Sunday morning worship services. Miss Dees is director, Diane Strong is accompanist, and Dar-mae Brown serves as organist.

The Wesleyan Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Milburn, is comprised of about seventy members. They played three concerts: Christmas, Winter and Spring. The band played a variety of music including jazz, contemporary, classical, and light numbers.

Mr. Milburn leads the Concert Band in a successful Christmas concert.

Wesleyan's student chapter of the American Guild of Organists did many things this year to advance their understanding of the organ and organ music. They visited the Moller Organ Factory in Hagerstown, Maryland, and sponsored a luncheon for Miss Ann Labounski, a guest organist. They also had several meetings in which they discussed such topics as problems involved in playing the organ, arrangement of concertos, and mechanical operation.

The Music Educators National Conference attempts to help music students become better musicians and better teachers. Members of the organization attended a conference of MENC chapters in West Virginia at Jackson's Mill in October. They also attended the West Virginia Music Educators Association conference in March. The organization meets once a month with speakers and discussion.

The Community Council had a most successful year under the active leadership of D. Lyn Dotson. Lyn deemed it necessary to concentrate much of his efforts on communicating with Administrators — an area which had been neglected. He found the Administrators ready and willing to help in any way possible. For this reason as well as the effective Council members, the list of Community Council achievements is long. Some of the more outstanding ones are Ecology Days, Voter Registration, and Homecoming and Spring Weekend. Council passed the proposal to update women's hours and ratified a system of pass/fail grading in elective courses. The most important action of the year came when Council adopted a full list of constitutional amendments. These changes gave Community Council some new standing committees, a more representative membership, and a chance to be a more active and effective council.

The purpose of the Wesleyan Association of Secretarial Personnel is to work toward the betterment of the college as well as of the secretarial personnel. The women held a bake sale to help pay for a piece of equipment for the new ambulances purchased for the Emergency Medical Service. They also donated a timely book to the library in memory of June Flowers, former director of the Service Center.

Debate Team Concludes First Year with a Successful Record

The recently reorganized Debate Team overcame serious handicaps to become one of the most winning teams at Wesleyan this year. After attending eight tournaments and defeating Ohio State, West Point, Vanderbilt, Eastern Kentucky, WVU, and Pitt, the team brought home eight trophies, three of which were first place, and three speaker certificates. The team, which consisted of ten freshmen and two upperclassmen, faced the challenge of little experience, a national topic which set collegiate debate history because it was changed twice, and a change of coaches in the middle of the year. With determination on the team's part and help from Mr. William Mallory and Mrs. Juanita Hoffman, the team had a very successful year.

Wesleyan physical education majors watch the lesson being demonstrated on the floor.

The Physical Education Club was established to help enrich the understanding of physical education majors and minors beyond what the curriculum can provide. The club held three workshops this year. The first one, sponsored by the State Department of Education, concerned physical education in the elementary schools. Nationally known speakers participated in the workshop which was held not only for Wesleyan students but for people from all over the state. Following that was a Trainer's Clinic, held in February, to teach students care of injuries, reconditioning, and rehabilitating. The third one concerned physical education in secondary schools. Emphasis was placed on team sports for women and conditioning and training for men.

The workshop provided participants with new ideas to use in teaching.

HEA Wins Honors at White Sulphur Springs

Wesleyan's chapter of the American Economics Association attempts to further the interests of girls majoring or minoring in Home Economics in several ways. The girls meet once a month with a speaker. Activities this year included a freshman picnic, Christmas bazaar, and a senior banquet. Twenty-one students and five adults attended the West Virginia HEA convention at the Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs March 24-25. The girls won first place along with two other schools for their scrapbook. There were about ten schools present.

Religious Life Council Plans December Fast Day

The purpose of the Sunday Morning Worship Committee is to help the Dean of the Chapel plan and evaluate the Sunday Chapel services. The group meets once a month to help decide on speakers, music, format, and liturgy. The Chapel Service Fund comes from the church offering. Money is allotted from this to help needy students, to help in emergencies or for other worthwhile projects.

The Religious Life Council plans and coordinates many of the religious activities on campus. The council includes committees for "Your Thing with God," Coffee House, Open Forum, Holbrook Nursing Home, and Stamp Out Starvation. Also the Sunday Morning Worship Committee, which is not actually a part of RLC, and Wesleyan's representatives to the Committee for Religious Concern of the Mountain State Association of Colleges, make regular reports to RLC. The Council sponsored the December First Fast Day to Save a People, to help East Pakistan Refugees. Six hundred and eighteen students gave up meals for one day so that Saga could donate the money to the fund. Total money received was over seven hundred dollars.

Kappa Phi Hosts the State Convention

Kappa Phi is a Christian women's organization. Their national theme for the year was "Development: The New World Peace." The girls held a Halloween party for the SSP children, helped at the Crippled Children's clinic, kept a nursery during chapel services, and sponsored a Korean student. They also have monthly programs and circle meetings relating to the theme, a homecoming brunch for alumni sisters, a Rule Log service and Christmas party, Rose Tea, and participate in intramurals. Special activities were held in March during Kappa Phi week, including workshops for the state conference which Wesleyan's chapter hosted at Jackson's Mill.

SSP Receives Government Grant to Expand Program

Tutoring children at Turkey Run is one of SSP's projects.

Student Service Projects give students a chance to help area people, mostly children, in many ways. One of the most successful committees this year is the Recreation Committee which meets every Saturday with about thirty youngsters for games, arts, and crafts. Other committees visit Weston State Hospital, tutor at Turkey Run, visit with and make tapes for blind people, act as big brothers and big sisters to children who need them, and tutor individually. Also, two students made weekly visits to the Sand Run School first semester to teach music and physical education.

SSP was supported entirely by contributions until it received a grant of $3,367 from the West Virginia Commission on Aging for a trial period. The grant was used to set up a program for SSP to work in conjunction with Community Action at the Senior Citizens Center in Buckhannon. It allowed them to set up a badly needed central office with a part-time coordinator. The grant also allowed them to provide needed transportation.

Wesleyan Reaches Out . . .

To the Community

It's hard to think of children starving in Pakistan or even a rural Buckingham child who is having trouble with his lessons when you're going into finals week 1000 pages behind in reading or when the ten days of rain finally ends and everyone is going to Audra for the afternoon. Yet one of the complaints about Wesleyan is that we're too isolated, too uninvolved.

One of the ways Wesleyan reaches out is through SSP. Student Service Projects was established with the idea that student volunteers could help area people. One of the most successful of the program's committees this year is the Recreation Committee which meets every Saturday with a group of about thirty youngsters for games, arts, and crafts. Other committees visit Weston State Hospital, tutor at Turkey Run, visit with and make tapes for blind people, and act as big sisters and brothers to area children.

The Drug Council was established in March 1971 to provide accurate, unbiased drug abuse information and to be available to provide help and information to anyone with a problem. The Hot Line is open from Friday till Monday morning to anyone on campus or in town. The Council receives an average of nine calls per weekend covering a wide variety of problems. The Council is beginning to be accepted in town and its members have been invited to speak at several organizations.

To the State . . . And to the Nation

The radio station went on the air in 1968 both to provide an educational and informational radio station to the campus and the state and to provide students with experience in broadcasting. The station broadcasts seven days a week to an area of a sixty mile radius from the radio tower in Weston. The station features national and state news every hour, coverage of all football and home basketball games, campus news, programs of national and international interest such as "Firing Line," cultural programs, and music for listening.

Stamp Out Starvation was started at Wesleyan in 1969 to help send food, medical supplies, and tools to needy countries. Canceled postage stamps are collected from the campus and accumulate at Terry Swanner's apartment, where he and some helpers sort the stamps. Then they are sent to Church World Services where they are sold to Stamp wholesalers for purchase by individual stamp collectors. At the end of 1971 Wesleyan had contributed over 200,000 stamps to provide twenty-five tons of food and supplies.

THE TEAM

Aware.

- Of an intrinsic urge to compete, to strive, to challenge; to endure the strain gripping every tensed muscle in order to achieve, to excel.
- Of an intense concentration uniting body and mind to pit ability against ability; each aware of the worth of the undertaking.
- Of the pride emanating from personal accomplishment, but also of the impetus of a vague, amorphous driving force . . . school spirit.
- Of an impregnable bond between one individual and others, all knowing the surest success stems from cooperation; one person alone is small — greatness comes from reaching out.

Bobcats Round Out Football Season With Marietta Victory

Terry Landis shares his tired exuberance with his parents.

The Bobcat football team ended a rather disappointing season of 2-9 in glory with a 24-23 triumph over Marietta. The Bobcats were behind by nine points with less than three minutes to go in the game when they drove sixty yards for 7 points. Then Les Hart kicked a field goal with less than ten seconds to go, insuring a victory by only one point. The crowd, wild with excitement, charged onto the field after the game to congratulate the team. The Bobcats won only one other game this season, but they gave Salem, one of the best teams in the conference, a tough fight for a disappointing loss of 0-3. The team loses only three seniors, Terry Richter, Art Wheelock, and Dana Otis and several outstanding juniors and sophomores will be returning. Terry Landis made the All-Conference team and Jay Fleishmann, Chuck Elkins, and Tom Robinson earned honorable mentions.

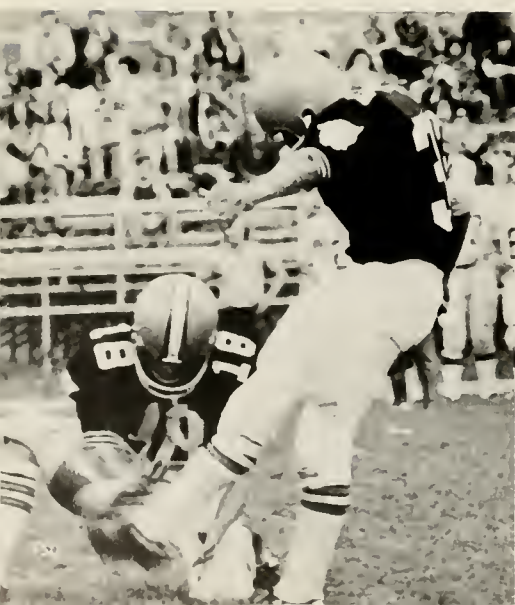

Joe Calaci evades the defensive team for a first down.

Wesleyan's Cross Country Squad Places Fourth at State Meet

Bobcats get off to a good start.

The Cross Country team had a successful season this year with a record of 4-3. They came in fourth at the state meet and sixth at the West Liberty Invitational. Ricky Richmond, a freshman and the most successful runner on the team, placed first in the meets. Ricky, Ed Trimmer, and Marshall Custer tied for first place at the first meet with Davis and Elkins. Ricky ran a total of 465 miles, including meets and practice. The entire season, Marshall Custer, the only senior on the team, had the next greatest distance with 253½ miles. Coach Ellis said that although he did not have very many go out for this team, those that did were dedicated and did an excellent job. He called this a building year and expressed the hope that more would try out next year.

Wesleyan picks up loose ball.

A new sport was introduced to the Wesleyan campus this year. The name of the game is Rugby. This active game was originated in England and was the forerunner of the American favorite, football. One of the players described this game as a cross between soccer and football.

The Wesleyan team had forty-seven men sign up for action. Wayne Harrison acted as both coach and captain. Rugby is a two season sport — fall and spring, and our team had an encouraging first season. The team is looking forward to an even better spring season.

Teamwork is the key to rugby success.

The track team, under the coaching of Bob Braine, finished fourth in the state meet this year. The team proved very strong in the field competition, finishing first in three out of six events. Track members worked hard first semester selling hoagies and pizza to earn money for a trip south over spring break to meet other schools in practice sessions. Consistent winning performances were turned in by Jim Hennessey, Dana Otis, Joe Owen, Ted Brown, and Jerry Wolfgang. Jerry qualified for the National Track Championships in Billings, Montana by jumping 6'8" in the high jump at the state meet. Two other school records were set by Jim Hennessey, shot put, and Dana Otis, intermediate hurdles.

Chi Phi Takes College Championship in Softball Intramurals

Scott Detweiler bangs one into right field for Chi Phi.

Jack Frear slams the ball skyward.

Jan Yapple, Sigma Theta, beats the ball to first base.

Harry Willis tips the edge of third as he heads for home.

Paul Hepp strides toward base while Ron Beall waits for the ball.

Once again the coming of spring was noted by men's softball intramurals. Teams in both independent and fraternity leagues played a double elimination tournament. After many exciting games, the winners were determined. The fraternity champion was the Chi Phi team, which also took the college championship. The winner of the independent league was the Marbleheaded Roughriders.

THE GREEK

Aware.

- Of the tense excitement of rushing-exploring the dark and light alleys of Greek life, deciding if you want to become a part of the whole.
- Of the developing unity of the pledge period, from knowing people's names to knowing people.
- Of learning to relate positively to other people, to accept their differences, to merge talents as an individual into a group effort.
- Of the tensions, frustrations, and anxieties stemming from interaction within the group, but shared by members of that group.
- Of a shared experience in living.

Fall Greek Week Falls Through

Due to the weather, poor organization, or lack of communication, the fall Greek Week events failed to attract the usual participation and enthusiasm. The absence of sorority activities might also have been a contributing factor. ΚΑ took top honors in the sports events with Phi Sig placing second. The dance was sparsely attended so the picnic held in the Social Hall seemed to generate the most excitement of all planned events.

Bed and Raft Races Highlight Spring Greek Events

The Spring Greek events added an extra spark of gold to Wesleyan's 1972 Spring Weekend. Both sororities and fraternities participated in field events, swimming activities, and the bed and raft races. Chi Phis broke to the finish line for first in the bed race with Phi Sigs running second and also pulling to the fore in the raft race for first place. Theta Chis rowed a close second. With Phi Sigs swimming to second in the pool events, they achieved the overall Greek Trophy for the year. The sorority girls flocked out for the pyramid building contest, three-legged race, egg toss, wheel barrow race, tug-of-war, and swimming events. The ADPis racked up points to rank in the first notch with Alpha Gams placing second.

The Alpha Delta Pi initiated a new year by sponsoring an Open House which was the culmination of the complete redecoration of their sorority room. The sisters planned their first place Homecoming float at their fall retreat at Jackson's Mill and also took second in banner competition. Nancy Grobarz, one of the twenty-six pledges taken this year, represented the Pis in the Murmurmontis Queen Contest. The sisters sponsored a spaghetti dinner in conjunction with the Theta Chis to raise money to contribute to crippled children. Their choice for ADPi sweetheart, Rusty Hagedorn, was announced at their annual Black and White formal at Bel Meadows. Three sisters were chosen as fraternity sweethearts: Marcia Schaefer to represent Kappa Alpha, Andrea Georgalas to serve for Theta Chi, and Cheryl Kiser to represent Phi Sigma Epsilon. The Pis placed first in Greek volleyball competition and in the Greek events during Spring Weekend. The sorority was also represented in the Spring Court by senior Helyn Sheppo, rounding out a full and active year.

Six Sisters Represent Alpha Gam in Spring Court

Alpha Gamma Delta had a busy and fulfilling year under the leadership of Judy Ruskay and Joan Gustavson. The sorority participated actively in Homecoming events, placing first with their banner "Go Wesleyan, Young Man, Go Wesleyan" and taking second for their float "America Moves." Nonie Sharp, Judy Ruskay, and Barb Boltz were elected to the Homecoming court and Ann Shaffer represented Gams in the Murmurmontis Queen Contest. The sisters captured first place in the basketball intramurals and rated second among the sororities in scholarship competition. During the year, twenty new sisters experienced rush, pledging and activation. The sorority knitted, baked, sewed, and made for the craft bazaar to raise money for their altruistic project. The Gams concluded another happy year with Spring Weekend when Joanne Barton, Debbie Clay, Ann Harter, Linda Schmunk, Sara Lee Warren, and Marilyn Terry were elected to the court and the sorority placed second in the Greek events.

Beta Sigma Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta Retires National Membership Trophy

The sisters of Alpha Xi Delta generated enthusiasm and achievement throughout the year, beginning with their fall retreat at Jackson's Mill. The Alpha Xi penguins were responsible for the sorority's honorable mention in the Homecoming float competition. The Homecoming court was dotted with Barb McIntyre, Martha Wiseman, and Margie Dull, while Nancy Hart was selected as Murmurmontis Queen. The sisters reached out from their sorority to underprivileged Buckhannon children at their annual Christmas party with the Theta Xis. The Xis also acted as a joint foster parent to a Navajo Indian child in New Mexico. The sorority "walked on by" the judges to first place in the women's division of Spring Sing competition, while Linda Hayden and Marci Wertz represented them in the court. The "sweethearts of Alpha Xi" selected to represent Theta Xi and Chi Phi respectively were Jeanie Ashenbaugh and Linda Hayden. Taking twenty-three pledges, the chapter retired the National Membership Trophy after receiving the award for three consecutive years.

Debbie Maxwell and Judy Gibson enjoy the formal honoring the pledges.

Zeta Tau Alpha experienced the repeated excitement and hard work inherent in rush, pledging, sorority activities, and projects. A get-to-know-you party with the alums was an innovation this year that is to become an annual affair. Their president for the 1972-73 year, Paula Foard, represented Zetas in the Murmurmontis Queen Contest. The sisters continued to fill the top scholarship notch by being awarded the first place Panhellenic trophy with a fantastic overall average of 3.0. The seniors were presented with untraditional corsages at their traditional picnic — each represented the intended vocation of the graduating sisters, so an elementary education major received a nice bunch of pencils rather than posies. Zetas also contributed to a fund for the mentally retarded.

Rushing is an exciting experience for many students at Wesleyan.

For sororities the fall rush period is one week and spring rush is two weeks. Any girl who meets the scholastic requirement may sign up with no obligation to pledge. After attending various formal and informal parties, the rushees go to Agnes Howard to receive their bids. Then they spend the night with their new "sisters."

boys.

Zetas conclude their formal party by serenading the rushees.

Pledges Strive for Unity in Preparation for Activation

Alpha Gams pause at the Theta Chi house during one of their many stops to round up the items for their scavenger hunt.

Phi Sigma Epsilon pledges plan to dig a new garbage pit for their project.

Alpha Xi pledges make a combined effort to compile a scrapbook for the active chapter.

Zeta Tau Alpha proudly displays their new spring pledge class.

Pledging is a special time for pledges to learn more about their sorority or fraternity and to really become a part of it. The pledge period never lasts longer than one semester, but each fraternity and sorority has the right to decide when its pledges are ready to go active.

All pledges must learn the history and nature of their Greek organization and pass its national test. Most sororities and fraternities have a system of favor points and signatures, and big brothers and big sisters to give the pledges a chance to get to know the actives better. Pledging also includes a variety of activities including line-ups, rides, scavenger hunts, and parties. Most also have pledge projects, usually to improve the fraternity house or donate a gift to the sorority room. Representatives from each of the sorority classes compose the Junior Panhellenic Council, which decides on many issues concerning pledge classes. The Council usually initiates some kind of community service project.

Part of pledging is earning those points from the actives sisters, as ADPi Gloria Demedio well knows.

Wesleyan's Greek organizations demonstrated in many ways this year that they are aware of, and care about, the needs of others.

All the sororities have national altruistic projects to which they contribute money each year. This year the Sams held a craft bazaar to raise money for the Founders' Memorial foundation.

The Alpha Delta Pis spent a day this spring cleaning up Audra. They also sponsored a dinner with the Theta Chis to contribute to the ADPi's national project to help crippled people and to the construction of the skating rink. Theta Chis also helped Mr. Gill with the lily garden this fall.

Several years ago the sisters of Alpha Xi adopted a New Mexican Girl named Sara through Children Inc. They send her money every month and write letters often. They also held a Christmas Party with Theta Xi for the underprivileged children in the Buckhannon area.

Zetas held a Christmas Party for the mentally retarded children at the Sunshine School. The girls also collected money for the Cancer Drive and Shamocks for Dystrophy and contributed money to their national project to help mentally retarded children.

The Phi Sigs also adopted an Indian child.

THE GRADUATE

Aware.

Of individuals leaving college with a whole new set of questions. Some things are resolved in their minds, some yet, and maybe always will, remain elusive. Rare is the person who leaves college with a firm grasp on life, an unshakable serenity.

Of persons questioning what they always have accepted, examining the thoughts of peers, and facing problems they have never before considered their responsibility. And finally getting an opportunity to translate these new thoughts into a life style.

Of persons who can now face the world with confidence — confidence that they are broader, deeper persons because of their exposure to others, and others to them. They leave to take or make their places in the world.

Seniors

In the past four years, new facilities, increased enrollment, and national recognition in many areas have added special meaning to Wesleyan college life. Through all the changes, the goal has been the same — educated, cultured, committed persons.

Let it be remembered that we came here not to learn all the answers, just where to find them. We came to meet, to learn, to give, to say yes to the full utilization of our capabilities.

THE UNDERGRADUATE

- Aware.
- Of students who come together in an institution of higher learning for as many reasons as there are students.
 - Of students discovering who they are and others finding out what they must be.
 - Of students who earnestly seek knowledge, an understanding, an awareness. The enjoyment of participating in a good class.
 - Of others wrapped up in themselves, for whom Wesleyan is merely a temporary resting place. They are never educated, only spend years of attending classes.
 - Of experiences that are unique and never repeated.

Edited by: Martha Ellison

Freshmen

Discovering that it's really only a five minute walk from McCuskey to Camden, getting buried in fall leaves, making an "A" on a test, going to Maggie's for dinner, buying toothpaste at Stripe Discount . . . all these things and many more fit together to make Wesleyan a second home to a freshman. To a student barely out of high school, Wesleyan may seem like a myriad of different images all jumbled together. But things soon begin to fall in place and become a part of him.

The freshmen class officers are (clockwise): J. Rush, secretary; B. Olita, vice-president; E. Smith, treasurer; and C. Munhian, community council representative. J. Whitney, president, is not pictured.

Sophomores

Classes that delve deeply into the subject instead of eternally making surveys, a different circle of friends, a special spot by the river, brand new classrooms, freshly fallen snow, quiet moments . . . you thought you knew Wesleyan, didn't you? Even for a sophomore who has already been here a year, Wesleyan can continually reveal new things. The secret is that if he has a yearning for, a perceptiveness of, and an awareness of new things, he will continually find them.

The Sophomore class officers are (clockwise): C. Carmichael, treasurer; C. Cress, secretary; T. Anderson, president; M. Vignault, community council representative; J. Cook, vice-president.

Juniors

Sage three times a day, play rehearsal every night, 8:00 MWF classes, a phone call every weekend, only two more semesters and three hours in summer school . . . for a junior, Wesleyan is often a routine. Yet, if the routine becomes so ingrained in him that it becomes an end in itself, it can be stifling. But if he is aware of a larger plan, an underlying drive and purpose, a whole that makes the parts fit together meaningfully and coherently, then that routine is alive and vibrant for him.

The Junior class officers are (clockwise): E. Scott, treasurer; E. Conley, community council representative; J. Brown, community council representative; C. Kiser, secretary; L. Conley, president; D. Denning, vice-president.

THE PRESIDENT 1957-1972

When a man TELLS you that he loves his work, you think him a pretender. For words are merely tools with which to climb.

But when you can READ that love in his EYES, then truth is staring you in the face.

You know that he has an inner air. An inner light in which freedom lives and from which a man can draw the breath of self-respect.

You can see in his eyes the quality of his yesterdays,
the vision of his tomorrow.
Clearly.
For to him, the distinction between what is good and what is not is as obvious as a blink.

Like a tree whose roots grow deeper with each storm, so a man's eyes open wider with the knowledge of self.

The Man: Stanley H. Martin
President: West Virginia Wesleyan College

He arrived at Wesleyan at the time the college was starting to grow. He is leaving Wesleyan after his dreams for expansion have been realized. Now the college is ready to turn in still another direction.

In 1957, student enrollment numbered 797 — it reached its peak twelve years later with 1,796 students. Thirty-nine members comprised the faculty at Wesleyan then. It increased to its present level of 130. The budget reached $553,000 when Dr. Martin first came to Wesleyan and is now $4,200,800. The 1972 plant value exceeded its 1957 counterpart by eleven million dollars. For this position of obvious strength, much credit must be given to the leadership of Dr. Stanley H. Martin who has dreamed Wesleyan's dreams and charted its progress.

During President Martin's fifteen year tenure of office, Wesleyan has been transformed from a four-building campus to a full-sized community. Continued construction spanning each year since 1957 has resulted in nine major buildings, a renovation, an extension, and a projection of the tenth. McCuskey Hall was built in 1958, Jenkins Hall for women in 1959, Doney Hall in 1962, Benedum Campus Community Center and Holloway Hall in 1963, New Hall and Wesley Chapel in 1967, and Middleton Hall for the nursing department in 1971. This additional facility enabled Wesleyan to become the second college in West Virginia to be nationally accredited. Supervised by Wesleyan's physical plant director William Conneway, renovation of fifty-seven year old Haymond Hall is now underway to house the home economics department, communications, and humanities classrooms and offices. This project is under the close scrutiny of HEW as college supervision is something new in construction. The Annie Merner Pfeiffer Library is undergoing an expansion program which will double the available floor space, increase seating to 600, and add office space and classrooms. To complete the building program, a fund-raising campaign is now underway to replace the old gym with a new physical education plant. This building will contain a main basketball court and a portable stage. An adjoining women's gym will connect to the health center with doctor's offices and examining rooms. The plant will contain a host of various other services and facilities.

Long-Range Planning Committee

Wesley Andy: Dave McMahon; Wesley Ann: Kit tie Blount.

Aware.

Of the changing personality of Wesleyan, its natural evolution wrought by time.

That students, faculty, and administration each offer threads that intertwine to form the rope that embraces Wesleyan.

That Wesleyan has shifted its plan for fulfillment from making the rope longer to making it stronger. That the future strength of the rope is insured through past selection and careful planning.

That the thread of leadership binds all together, unified to withstand the unraveling of time.

"Always project more than you can do, then try to do it."

— Stanley H. Martin

All the Same to Me

The atmosphere is quite interesting;
The lights issue a glossy gay glow;
The music, so pulsating;
It almost controls the senses —
That and the beer.
Humor destiny elicits itself immensely;
Fraternity is something everlasting;
People actually come alive
In that little dark tavern.
No one's at a loss for words.
Though occasionally the bartender is;
But he has to make an honest living.
So do we all, I guess;
And I wonder, gazing around in there;
With people purking, stambling, laughing, gurgling;
Whether they ever consider the virtues
Instilled upon the minds of many
Who sing praises to our Lord and Saviors;
Not just any singing, but hymns of glory and honor.
So each and every Sunday morning,
Angels faces behold all together
Toward their good and gracious pastor
His sermons ever so flawless.
None at a loss for words.
Honesty flows with the radiance of sunshine,
Pouring through the tall majestic windows;
The music, so awe-inspiring;
That and the worshipping of God
And such a warmth of fellowship;
A common understanding of beliefs;
Happiness is never so overwhelmed as
In that grand old Church of God.

My Brother or My Brother

I'm standing on the edge of town
Thinking things through and looking around
In front of me is standing you
You are also wondering what to do.
Though you are physically different from me
You are my brother spiritually.
You can be my brother along life's road
Or be my bother, and add to the load.
Through cloudy, fair, or stormy weather
We'll pull the most of us/pull together.

Steve Scholt
